

Problem Statement:

While there are many public transportation and ride sharing apps it is not promoted enough to ensure safer and less traffic on the highways.

Details:

Nobody likes going on the interstate between 3pm-8pm. The traffic is horrible and the risk of crashing is through the roof. These days there are public busses and trains available to the public to help those with out vehicles, but what if there was an app that gave people a way to commute to and from their jobs. The app would give the user a way to search up their job and the routes there specific jobs busses would take. The busses would take routes like school busses in order to get people home
